GOOD PAINTING CALLS FOR GOOD MATERIALS

Fish Oil, Barytes and Poor Workmen Cannot Give Best Results, Savs Master Painter.

Poor materials and poor workmanship cannot produce anything but a poor job of painting, says H. W. Taylor of this city, in a paper on "Satisfactory Painting," presented at the last con vention of the International Association of Master House Painters and Decorators of the United States and "Nowadays people often remark with disgust, 'It's impossible to have good painting done any more; either the painters," said Mr. Taylor in the paper. "Sometimes there is ground for the dissatisfaction, but sweeping state ments of this kind do not mend matters Such charges are too broad, and they do not point the way to better paint

"What is the real trouble? Let us, as house owners, see if we are in any degree at fault. Such self-examination may lead to enlightenment.

"What do we do when he have a building to paint? If it is a new one we may leave it to the architect, but frequently the architect is so fearful that we shall think him 'owned,' or at least unduly influenced in favor of some manufacturer, that he dodges responsibility of naming materials that he knows are good and simply says 'best materials must be used.' He may be a little more definite and specify 'best white lead and linseed oil,' but in actual practice this usually works out very little better than the first expression.

| Mast six years or longer or the maker will spread a third farther than the kind the painter than th manufacturer, that he dodges responsi

these important particulars and thus manage to make something on his low The result is that the honest

Cannot Judge Paint in Pail.

Cannot Judge Paint in Pail.

"Neither house owner nor architect can check off the painter on such general specifications. All paint looks alfke in the pail; it may be half chalk as to pigment and half corn oil as to medium and still pass muster to the eye. Moreover, defects do not show at once, and the paint is not likely to go wrong until after the work is accepted and the bill paid. When, in a year or less, the paint begins to check, crack and scale off in sugly splotches, the house owner gets angry and says, 'It's impossible to get honest materials and honest workmanship nowadays." We forget that the lowest bidder did the work.

"We forget too that in condomning." "We forget too that in condomning towards materials to ward materials now days as good turpentine and just as good materials we held the lad turpentine and just as go

Making Another Mistake.

"In spite of our dissatisfaction, how ever, we must have our house repainted, so what do we do? Send for the man who made the high bid and talk it over with him? Some of us do:

RULES FOR THE STAR'S CLEAN-UP PAINT-UP PRIZE ESSAY CONTEST

but in any case they must be perfectly legible.

Essays must not exceed 1,000 words in length-preferably shorter. Other things being equal, the briefer of two essays will be awarded the prize.

Subject matter of essays must be confined to clean-up and paint-up-the sanitary, economic, artistic and general beneficial results of cleaning up and painting up, from the point of view of the community as well as the individual and the family.

Prizes will be awarded solely on the merit of the essays. No person connected in any capacity with The Star will be eligible to submit an essay in the contest. All other residents of the District of Columbia will be eligible to compete.

The contest is now open, and manuscripts will be received until Saturday, April 22. All essays intended for the prize competition must be in the hands of the Clean Up-Paint Up Prize Essay Editor by that date, and none received later than Saturday, April 22, can be considered.

Essays must be plainly addressed to the Clean Up-Paint Up Prize Essay Editor, The Star, and must bear the name and address of the contestant, plainly written in the upper left-hand corner of the first Prizes aggregating $100 will be awarded by The Star for the best essays submitted in accordance with these rules. The prizes will be divided as follows: First prize, $25 in cash; second and third prizes, $10 each, In cash; fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh prizes, $5 each, in cash; next thirty-five prizes, $1 each, in cash. Prize winners will be announced and prizes distributed Saturday, April 29.

Judges of the prize essay contest will be Charles Macnichol for the Master House Painters and Decorators' Association: Dr. John L. Norris for the District health department, and Frank G. Heaton for The Star.

thal practice this usually works out very little better than the first expression.

Honest Painter Loses.

"Bids are then asked for and the lowest is accepted. Being required to furnish no definite materials, one painter estimates honestly on standard brands of pure white lead and pure linseed oil, regarding the quality of which there can be no question. Another painter puts his own interpretation on the word 'best' and submits a lowestimate, saving to himself, 'that's the "best' I can furnish at my price.'

"The first painter responds conscientiously to the architect's specifications that the paint shall be applied in a certain way, giving plenty of time between coats and brushing out the paint properly on each coat. The other man thinks he can slight the work in these important particulars and thus manage to make something on his low."

Cheaper, I don't see how I can lose, I'll hire some fellow to put it on, because any one can spread paint, and I'll be away ahead of the game.

"It looks easy, but the fact is, we are easy. The paint goes on; maybe it doesn't. The workman we employed forgot to scrape the old paint down smooth where it had scaled and by Dr. Noble P. Barnes and Dr. Edward Hiram Reede, representing the materials and study on smooth where it had scaled and the it scales worse and sooner than the first coat did. But we have our guarantee and we think we'll collect, until a law-yer tells us the guarantee is so shrewd in devention on it if we sued from now until judg-ment day. So now we know absolute-ly there's no good paint any more—no honest makers and no competent workmen.

No Right to Squeal.

"The fact is, we plunge on our painting, hoping that maybe we'll win out to doesn't. The Doesn't He Gourse it of Columbia and I'll be away ahead of the game. I'll be desn't. The Workman we can be followed forgot to scrape the old paint down smooth where it had scaled the George Washington University Medical School, last night. Papers were read by Dr. Noble P. "We forget, too, that in condemning all paint because that which we used went wrong we are about as reasonable as we should be if we declared there were no good strawberries any more simply because those we bought of an irresponsible peddler proved rotten at the bottom of the box.

"Good work is done by intelligent. Conscientious painters. Such work what it costs. It will pay the house to insist on having the best materials and then having them applied by good work in the conscientious painters. Such work what it costs. It will pay the house to insist on having the applied by good work is done by intelligent.

Your wife will point out a score of reasons why she likes these Illinois Avenue Homes.

After all the woman is the best judge of home value. Paint and paper don't weigh with her as compared with the conveniences for housekeeping-the plan of the rooms, the generous provision of closets; the cheeriness of the outlook; the brightness and airiness

And that's why your wife will choose one of these Illinois Homes in preference to any other. We have incorporated into them the last thought in comfort and convenience.
